Parent - teacher communication

- ➢ The child can arrange much of the communication with the teacher himself.
- ➢ where necessary, the teacher will contact you via the Parro app, email, telephone or outside after school.
- ➢ You can always give a verbal or written message through your child
- ➢ Would you like to share information or have a conversation? Please send an email to the teacher; Please note that teachers have working hours, which means emailing on the working days of the teacher in question and not after 4:30 PM. The primary process is number one, which means that the teacher can never send emails during class time. And that after school he/she is often busy with learning activities, consultation moments and lesson preparations. Then email cannot be answered, so it may take some time.
- ➢ You can of course call us for urgent matters.
- ➢ Before class time, the teacher is focused on welcoming the group and the start of the teaching time. At that time you cannot talk to the teacher. However, IB staff and management always walk outside or at the front door at the start of the day, and you can always contact them.
